Dear Sir,

This letter is to inform you, that, following the Pandemic. The London and Greater London branch of the Merchant Navy Association has been reinstated. And, we are now actively recruiting new members in the London area.

The branch has 2 meeting venues. The Royal British Legion club in Paddington, and St. Margarets church Canning Town.

Our members work closely with other service organisations. And take part in services and parades. Not only in London. But as far afield as Weymouth and Liverpool.

We also arrange visits and outings and other shared social activities. We have a lively membership, who are serving and ex serving members of the M.N. Who share a common interest in the sea and ships. Whilst enjoying each others company, with friendship, fellowship, and comradeship.

The branch is also open to people from ancillary industries. And associate members who share the same aims and beliefs in promoting, the remembrance of the people who served. And still serve at sea in the interests of our island nation.

Sincerely yours

George Mellett
